1	Excellent collection of informative videos, other supporting materials. Great for a sailor of any level, especially in Maine where I sail and the OCH editors are located (most of the time). Highly unique on its content and strongly recommended.	10/23/2014 9:41 AM
2	An outstanding resource providing educational opportunities which are innovative, practical, entertaining and enjoyable! Staff and resource personnel are experienced artisans.	10/23/2014 9:38 AM
3	this site contains lots of very good information. it is presented in an interesting way. I have enjoyed the shared experience. If you like boats you'll like this site.	10/23/2014 9:35 AM
4	fsas	10/23/2014 9:23 AM
5	Watch out! If you aren't already addicted to building, renovating or maintaining wooden boats, OCH is going to take you there. If you're there already, it's going to enable and feed your addiction. There are, however, worse indulgences one could have.	10/23/2014 9:22 AM
6	I enjoy the videos in particular The recent three on sails and how to use them were excellent and enjoyably informative. Reminded me of how I had learnt to set sails in the dim distant past'	10/23/2014 9:07 AM
7	The films are of top quality and watching them really puts your head in a different space. Very zen like I guess. $30 isn't cheap, but we have to pay to have these films produced, because no one else will do them. It's only one case of beer per year.	10/23/2014 8:50 AM
8	I love the "how to do" videos. Often when working on a customer's boat I will watch a video and see how someone else might do the same job, there's always a different twist.	10/23/2014 8:48 AM
9	If you like boats and boating Off Center Harbor's Web site is the place to visit. A large amount of information is available. Instructional information, how-tos, stories, great films and people. Web site is constantly updated. Highly recommended.	10/23/2014 8:44 AM
10	Try it, best small boat and seamanship videos in the web. Interesting blogs.	10/23/2014 8:41 AM
11	do it	10/23/2014 7:53 AM
12	You can cherry-pick videos that interest you.....there is no such thing as "too much information"!	10/23/2014 7:53 AM
13	The videos at OCH are very well made, contain accurate information presented clearly, and detail problems or questions that every boater has encountered at one point or another.	10/23/2014 7:37 AM
14	if you are an authentic wooden boats fanatic, sailing boats specially, you'll enjoy OffCenterHarbor.com	10/23/2014 7:21 AM
15	The information sent is of great interest to boaters	10/23/2014 7:14 AM
16	Being a member gets you into a rich treasure trove of goodies all about sailing and boating and being on the water with people who share the passion.	10/23/2014 7:11 AM
17	If you are interested in wooden boats your missing out if your not a member.	10/23/2014 7:11 AM
18	Videos are informative and very well done.	10/23/2014 6:52 AM
19	I'm a small boat builder who retired from the "business world" a few year back. The information available from OCH is without comparison. The videos are extremely helpful regarding building tips and techniques, other videos are just plain fun to watch. The resource is fantastic.	10/23/2014 6:43 AM
20	There is far more content(and value) on the site than just the main videos.	10/23/2014 6:12 AM
21	make shore you join.	10/23/2014 6:10 AM
22	Just do it. Great value. You spend more then $29 on dinner and drinks out with your wife. For one time!	10/23/2014 5:54 AM
23	Great information on boats and boating. Videos are of high quality.	10/23/2014 5:50 AM

24	You tube is free and with out a doubt there is some good stuff on it. Off Center Harbor produces some great videos and informative dialogue on Classic Boats, sailing and seamanship, boat building and more. I enjoy OCH and find it great value for money. I will be renewing my subscription. Thank you OCH Chris McMullen	10/23/2014 5:06 AM
25	If you have a passion for traditional boats then OffCenterHarbor.com is what you subscribe to.	10/23/2014 4:26 AM
26	Just do it. You'll find many useful video's and learn just how much you don't know about sailing and other related topics.	10/23/2014 3:10 AM
27	Better than any magazine	10/23/2014 1:55 AM
28	It's a great way to get an inside view on the worlds of wooden boats and fine sailors and craftspeople.	10/23/2014 1:41 AM
29	Great access to lots of info about classic boats and practical Info about boating and sailing. Great resource for all things boating.	10/23/2014 1:41 AM
30	I got an offer from Off Center Harbor to join for a price break of $10 and have enjoyed the viewing of their videos so much I think I'll send them the $10 they deserve. Thanks so much OCH.	10/23/2014 12:57 AM
31	These are the best instructional and informational videos on boating I've seen. I urge you to subscribe and view them.	10/23/2014 12:56 AM
32	OCH is a great site for learning about many aspects of recreational sailing, motor boating , boat construction and boat handling	10/23/2014 12:42 AM
33	lots of info and well made videos	10/23/2014 12:39 AM
34	If they love small traditional wooden boats, this site will give useful information both building and sailing.	10/23/2014 12:26 AM
35	It has some really great videos for both the novice and the experienced sailor.	10/22/2014 11:51 PM
36	It is a great resource	10/22/2014 11:19 PM
37	Wide range of quality content in videos...from how to, what to, to just beautiful footage.	10/22/2014 11:15 PM
38	Join now!	10/22/2014 11:14 PM
39	The videos are well done, informative and cover a wide range of subjects	10/22/2014 11:09 PM
40	Be patient	10/22/2014 11:04 PM
41	Just do it, join, you won't regret it.	10/22/2014 11:03 PM
42	If you believe in boats, you can believe in OCH. Excellent videos and info.	10/22/2014 10:58 PM
43	OCH has very high quality, very cool, very diverse, very educational videos of boating of all kinds	10/22/2014 10:56 PM
44	If you enjoy just looking at well designed/built wooden boats then you'll enjoy this site and it's videos	10/22/2014 10:54 PM
45	Very good video concerning many aspects of boating.	10/22/2014 10:49 PM
46	I find OffCenterHarbor videos informative and entertaining and in addition, rather like an online boat show, sports venue and short course in various maritime topics I'd probably pay little attention to in a standard print format. I particularly enjoy the videos showing sailing (or motoring) aboard boats I'll never probably see, but have read and heard about.	10/22/2014 10:25 PM
47	The videos are a great collection and worth every penny. They are rather addictive because they are so informative and entertaining.	10/22/2014 10:22 PM
48	Great videos.	10/22/2014 10:20 PM
49	The videos alone are worth the price of admission.	10/22/2014 10:06 PM
50	I do not have enough time to enjoy all that OCH has to offer, but I'm hooked on one series. The video series on building a Caledonia Yawl is step-by-step lessons taught by an expert craftsman. He reveals his tricks and varies slightly from the original design to add character to this beautiful 18-foot dream-boat. It is a masterful tutorial on wooden boat building. OCH consistently captures the "spirit" of the sail, and I enjoy every moment that I can visit the site.	10/22/2014 10:00 PM

51	I can't express how satisfied I have been with my membership to OffCenterHarbor.com. The quality of the videos is outstanding, particularly the boatbuilding videos and the classic boat series. The guides are clearly passionate about beautiful designs, both modern and traditional, and about sharing their knowledge and skills with like-minded individuals. Since it is currently not practical for me to "apprentice" with them, I have found OffCenterHarbor.com to be a satisfactory substitute, particularly on those dark winter days when I need to scratch the sailing itch.	10/22/2014 9:56 PM
52	Join up. You will gain insights that can only come by WATCHING the true masters at work. Time after time you will say "wow" did I do that the hard way!	10/22/2014 9:51 PM
53	Go for it!	10/22/2014 9:50 PM
54	If you're looking to get into sailing these instructional videos are great. I've been sailing for 30 years, and I've learned something new in most of the videos I've watched. I building a Northeaster Dory from a kit, and the information in the How to Build a Caledonia Yawl has lots of info and tips for boatbuilders.	10/22/2014 9:50 PM
55	Best videos series available for instruction and entertainment.	10/22/2014 9:37 PM
56	Best value boating info your likely to find, I have a fibreglass boat(sorry) but have always had a great interest in wooden boat construction. I am just completing a ply tender, nesting/sailing dinghy & have found the Calidonia building project as well as the practical how to videos invaluable. The quality of the videos is excellent & the content is varied, 80 to 90% is of interest which is pleasing.	10/22/2014 9:34 PM
57	Videos. For me, it's all about the videos, especially those describing tools and how to use them. I began collecting tools sixty-one years ago. Some of them I still don't know how to use properly. A recent video on spoke shaves and planes showed me how to setup and use spoke shaves, a tool I've been "using" for a few decades. But, now I get those fine, thin curls of cross grain cured hardwood. Amazing. Now on to planes.	10/22/2014 9:26 PM
58	I've gained a great deal of knowledge from the OCH content. It's high quality but not commercial. It feels personal	10/22/2014 9:20 PM
59	The opportunity to ser wonderfull video	10/22/2014 9:19 PM
60	If a picture is worth a thousand words; a video w/ narrative is priceless! Great variety of subjects. The stars are ordinary people, but do they ever have a story to tell or work to share.	10/22/2014 9:17 PM
61	It is very, very informative and comprehensive.	10/22/2014 9:12 PM
62	a good resource for anyone who wants to learn about sailboats and sailing	10/22/2014 9:12 PM
63	Worth every penny.	10/22/2014 9:11 PM
64	a wealth of iinformation - descriptive, graphic, visual. Experienced builders and maintainers of boats, and equipment.	10/22/2014 9:03 PM
65	It is a video version of Wooden Boat, providing viewers an opportunity to experience both small and large boats, designs and personalities that are not available any other way	10/22/2014 8:55 PM
66	Something for every interest!	10/22/2014 8:52 PM
67	Great place to learn skills that you can not find any where else. Also great insights into the workings of some professional boat shops.	10/22/2014 8:48 PM
68	Very unique films on important subjects that are often not covered elsewhere.	10/22/2014 8:46 PM
69	Fabulous photography, jaw dropping beautiful boats, traditional sailing tips, good education	10/22/2014 8:40 PM
70	If you're into wooden boats, you can access loads of great videos. If you're building a wooden boat, you can learn so many great tips. The success of my first build has benefitted hugely from everything I've learnt from OCH.	10/22/2014 8:33 PM
71	These days the internet provides so much free content that people are hesitant to pay for anything. I was the same way but decided the quality of OCH content was worth it. The decision paid off with may enjoyable hours of excellent content and video. The recent excellent video series on sail trim is worth the price alone. For the price of a few coffees you can have a whole year of entertainment.	10/22/2014 8:27 PM
72	Very interesting videos and lots of great pictures of wooden boats, some new and some old.	10/22/2014 8:24 PM
73	It is GREAT!	10/22/2014 8:19 PM

74	This is just the sort of online help I'm always looking for. It's just like having an experienced mentor living next door to you, one that grew up with woodworking, boat building, and sailing; plus served an apprenticeship as a Shipwright as a young person...a long time ago. It's a good thing OCH isn't limited to 200 videos and is always expanding. How many years of experience do you suppose are represented by the contributors and staff?	10/22/2014 8:15 PM
75	These videos are beautiful and the information invaluable.	10/22/2014 7:57 PM
76	Do it!	10/22/2014 7:55 PM
77	It's the best way to get a salt water/ wooden boat fix in the middle of winter!	10/22/2014 7:48 PM
78	The video collection covers a wide range of topics. Some are moving and beautiful, while others are tremendously practical and informative. No matter the topic, they are always done well. I have learned and developed confidence to take on new skills and new projects on my boat because the videos illustrate more clearly than a book can. I also know I can trust the incredible crew of contributors. They are a veritable who's who and cover the US (and sometimes Canada) from Coast to Coast.	10/22/2014 7:45 PM
79	if you like any thing to do boats, this is the site to be on !	10/22/2014 7:45 PM
80	The video's are a great escape from the every day life - they are fantastic, and remind me of how much I do not know about boats!	10/22/2014 7:44 PM
81	I have enjoyed the videos so much. It took you guys limiting my access to the sail trimming videos that forced me to become a member...that was a good tactic on your part! The cockpit is going to become more active next summer!! :) Yesterday I encouraged membership to a friend of mine because of your awesome videos.	10/22/2014 7:43 PM
82	The most informative and entertaining site dealing with boats on the web. I have watched the site from the beginning and have yet to see a dud. Their inventory continues to grow and has become a great resource. If you enjoy boats you will enjoy OffCenterHarbor.com	10/22/2014 7:35 PM
83	Perhaps you need a bit of a lift after an intense and hectic day. Why not select one of the OCH treasures and find yourself gliding down Eggemogin Reach, or learning a new skill like sculling, or one of dozens of other videos that will put you into a relaxed frame of mind. Well, WHY NOT?	10/22/2014 7:34 PM
84	If you love classical boats, whether drooling over them, living aboard them or puttering on them, this is the site for you.	10/22/2014 7:27 PM
85	The video and social media format makes you feel you are part of the classic boat community in the U.S. Brilliant craftsmen, great boats, skilled sailors - it's my favourite subscription.	10/22/2014 7:22 PM
86	Hummm!	10/22/2014 7:19 PM
87	A most entertaining site, informative, instilling a passion for traditional wooden boats, yachts, in particular.	10/22/2014 7:15 PM
88	All the videos are amazing even if you don't plan on doing the project or adventure. The additional knowledge you pick up from the videos will come in handy down the line with something you are working on. A lot of potential for a reasonable cost.	10/22/2014 7:15 PM
89	There some good ideas and tips from experienced sailors.	10/22/2014 7:12 PM
90	A great source of pleasure, particularly when sailing is not an option.	10/22/2014 7:12 PM
91	If you have an interest in boats and are looking for a source to learn more about building, choosing or using them, OCH is a great source for a wealth of experienced people.	10/22/2014 7:11 PM
92	Great learning tool!	10/22/2014 7:09 PM
93	OCH is a wonderful, inspiring example of passionate people passing along their joys in all phases of boats and boating to other boaters (to be rediscovered in themselves and/or newly recognized) and in non-boaters such that they might well become passionate boaters as well.	10/22/2014 7:06 PM
94	Do it know. Its a great resource.	10/22/2014 7:03 PM
95	Great app. Full of good stuff on wooden boats and boat handling.	10/22/2014 6:59 PM
96	join	10/22/2014 6:53 PM
97	If you're tired of all the lookalike clorox bottle 'sneakerboats' that infest every waterway and marina, and long for the days when boats looked more like boats than spaceships...this is the place for you.	10/22/2014 6:52 PM

98	I love small wooden boats. I love sailing - when I can do it. I have yet to own my own boat, but hope to build one. There is nothing here but encouragement, expertise and good stuff. Whether in the arm chair, or at the tiller, good boat people ought to join the crew. "Believe me, my young friend, there is nothing - absolutely nothing - half so much worth doing as simply messing about in boats." — Kenneth Grahame, The Wind in the Willows Compared to the cost of coffee, this site is a real, honest bargain.	10/22/2014 6:46 PM
99	For anyone interested in traditional boats this is not only an informative site (particularly the two step by step building videos) but it is extremely entertaining. I can just sit and watch these videos for hours.	10/22/2014 6:46 PM
100	It's a good way to keep the romantic fires burning in the intrigue of wooden boats. Infatuation with brilliant projects, intimate details for personal ones, hand holding for step by step direction, bolstering hope for the future, and the pure satisfaction of knowing that you've not wasted a thing, but only enriched life by simply loving it. Yes, I'm female.	10/22/2014 6:42 PM
101	Good school, god vibes	10/22/2014 6:31 PM
102	Well worth it!	10/22/2014 6:31 PM
103	OCH is greater than the sum of its parts. It provides access to some true national (and international) treasures and provides a vehicle to capture critical pieces of knowledge and guidance for the ages.	10/22/2014 6:30 PM
104	If you are even remotely interested in wooden boats, woodworking or you enjoy watching the techniques of fine craftsman then I encourage you to join for at least a year it's worth the $29. OCH crew won't disappoint.	10/22/2014 6:27 PM
105	Join. There is a wonderful library of information and sailing imagery.	10/22/2014 6:24 PM
106	In a busy day it's really nice to take a break every now and then. OCH gives me that break in a blend of education and relaxed enjoyment plus I get to try out everything I've learn't the next time I'm on the boat ! Double the fun really.	10/22/2014 6:20 PM
107	Having been a member on Off Center Harbor.com for about 6 months now I've been exceptionally pleased with the continuous stream of new relevant content. I don't own a wooden boat but rather own a classic plastic boat that looks enough like a wooden classic that she keeps my interest thus focused.	10/22/2014 6:19 PM
108	Do it if you have any interest in boats whatsoever.	10/22/2014 6:17 PM
109	splendid tutorials, excellent historical pieces, inspiring boating videos	10/22/2014 6:14 PM
110	This is a great site with lots of information. Well worth joining. Videos are fantastic and I enjoy them very much. If you love boating you will love this too	10/22/2014 6:12 PM
111	it uses and easy formate and gives good information presented in an informal way	10/22/2014 6:12 PM
112	The videos are beautiful, the selection of topics is wide ranging and brilliant.	10/22/2014 6:11 PM
113	Join	10/22/2014 6:10 PM
114	its a lot of fun. Well done interesting articles and videos/	10/22/2014 6:09 PM
115	It doesn't matter if your sailboat is made of fiberglass, steel, aluminum, polyethylene, ...or wood. The historic ways-and-means of sailing is applicable to your rig. And with modern sails, lines, fasteners, fabrication techniques, tools, and so on, you can be out on the water sooner, safer and more confident. Off Center Harbor collects for us, on video, the best intelligence salt encrusted mariners have to offer ...the best probes into building techniques ...the best sculling (in our language) and knot tying ...the best in sail setting from those not relying on a diesel ...and the beauty of artful-function-afloat that never fails to inspire us. The knowledge, distilled and imparted, from the crew at Off Center Harbor will bring a new depth of appreciation and understanding to your boating experiences. Get wet!	10/22/2014 6:09 PM
116	I enjoy the extremely informative videos that are all produced with incredibly high quality. While there are many topics to choose from, I particularly enjoy the videos that cover construction and repair / restoration as well as boat handling. The material is added at an amazing pace, so the value for the subscription is definitely there.	10/22/2014 6:07 PM
117	If you are wanting to or in the process of building a wooden boat, this is your guide. The knowledge and precise instruction help has allowed me to complete Ellen while Geoff Kerr completes the CY..Not a step has been missed. My next craft will be a stitch and glue. Bill Thomas will take me through that learning. Tom Bolko	10/22/2014 6:05 PM
118	This is an excellent Site. Packed full of articles and streaming video on a whole host of subjects, including the often dark art of boat building.	10/22/2014 6:04 PM
119	DO IT! They may not look it, but these people are pros.	10/22/2014 6:01 PM

120	It's a unique source of fascinating videos and info about traditional and Classic boats.always worth looking at	10/22/2014 6:01 PM
121	It is a video teaching method using experts in their nautical field doing what they love to do when they combine wooden boating constructing skills and wooden boats sailing, rowing,and motoring on the water either fresh or salt. To get the complete idea of how wonderful it is to just mess around the water in boats. I think that someone has said that before!!	10/22/2014 6:00 PM
122	Sitting at my Mac and watching OCH Videos is a wonderful relief from my busy day. Oh, and in the winter in Michigan, I am sailing again...	10/22/2014 6:00 PM
123	The information is beautifully and succinctly presented in an easily understood format. Most topics are not available anywhere else.	10/22/2014 5:58 PM
124	I enjoy it .. am sure anyone with the slightest interest in boats would also	10/22/2014 5:57 PM
125	Give it a try, you won't regret it.	10/22/2014 5:54 PM
126	I dont think youll regret it.	10/22/2014 5:53 PM
127	Don't even think about joining OffCenterHarbor.com. You'll lose your job, ruin your marriage and probably begin the long, impossibly romantic process of casting off for destinations you've only ever dreamed of. Besides, you'll start fouling my access. I simply can't allow that. Okay, I'm a kidder. It's a fantastic site, crowded with accessible information, insight, inspiration and a passion for boats, nautical history and lives immersed in marine pursuits. In addition, it isn't sponsored by anyone but members & offers a wide range of opportunities to appreciate all watery things, filtered only by the individual enthusiasms of the website crew ... and suggestions/requests from the rest of us. So: say it's a Tuesday and I'm thinking about the elegance of virtually every boat in Mystic Seaport's Small Boat Shed but leaving the office is out of the question. So: fire up the browser and there's fifteen digital minutes of elegance over early morning coffee. I love the balance -- a video that take an intimate look at a one classic boat and its design beside a video that shows how to scull a pram through the harbor beside another video extolling the pleasures of kids sailing small boats. It's just a great blend of information with well done videography and knowledgeable on-screen discussions.	10/22/2014 5:49 PM
128	interesting perspectives on old timey boats. lots of info and different topics.	10/22/2014 5:45 PM
129	Great website for sailors and boatbuilders. Lets you appreciate the work involved in boat repair. Great for those of us who are curious about boats and sailing. Very informative for people with all levels of boating experience.	10/22/2014 5:44 PM
130	If you're a boater, thinking of becoming a boater or thinking of building a boat, this site is a real value.	10/22/2014 5:37 PM
131	As a charter Lifetime Member this is the only online subscription I have, and it has been worth quite a bit more than every penny paid. If you are considering, but not sure, join for a year. If wooden boats are your thing, or boating is your family's thing you won't be disappointed. The content is unique, well done, informative, and the guides are accessible. What have I learned? More than just the how to's of wooden boats, but also what drives people and families to classic yachting, to making this your lifetime sport. In reflection I've know sailors from 6 years old (my son, self and a few others) to 95. It's all here and you can't say that about any other sport. My membership in OffCenter Harbor has been an exceptional value. Even after 3 years, I check it almost every day.	10/22/2014 5:35 PM
132	I have really appreciated the value of having a "video" magazine that visually demonstrates construction methods as well as demonstrating different boats and boating experiences. Virtual Reality without the smells and feelings of wind and/or water - Yet!	10/22/2014 5:17 PM
133	If you want the info, anecdotes, ideas, techniques, gadgets and lore from the people who actually have done the work and have years of experience --- instead of articles filtered by editors and sized to fit around advertising.....JOIN....you will not be sorry. This is guerilla video at its best.....and the experience of the people comes shining through.	10/22/2014 5:05 PM
134	Single up and cast off with OCH, no matter what your boating experience there is salty entertainment and learning at every waypoint.	10/22/2014 5:05 PM
135	Great videos with interesting folks who do remarkable things with boats.	10/22/2014 4:59 PM
136	If you are into wooden boats, do it.	10/22/2014 4:56 PM
137	It's a low-cost opportunity to see some of the preeminent experts in their fields in their working environment. The broad range of topics is great.	10/22/2014 4:54 PM
138	Anyone who enjoys boating is missing out if they don't join OFC . Plus this time of the hear it is a great gift to give to another boating friend . There are endless videos and information available.	10/22/2014 4:54 PM

139	Something for ANYONE interested in boating. Novice or experienced, young or old, craftsman or tinkerer, retired looking for reminiscences. OffCenterHarbor brings it to you very professionally. OCH puts you right on the boat for happy sailing.	10/22/2014 4:50 PM
140	good source of information on sailing and various small boats	10/22/2014 4:49 PM
141	Unique site for people interested in traditional boats and seamanship - very well done	10/22/2014 4:46 PM
142	There seems to be something on the site that will appeal to every sort - would-be builders, beginners of all sorts, artists, fanatics, daydreamers. For someone semi-land locked in the hills of Vermont, it is access to that other world. The whole site is just plain fun - and relaxing.	10/22/2014 4:45 PM
143	This is a good site if your are a serious boat enthusiast.	10/22/2014 4:45 PM
144	I am an amateur boat builder and the information available from OCH has been extremely helpful.	10/22/2014 4:44 PM
145	A great place for educational, entertaining, and how-to videos for anyone who enjoys working on boats.	10/22/2014 4:27 PM
146	If you love boats and sailing, you will love OffCentreHarbor. Plenty on sailing, building and history to keep your mind on your next sail!	10/22/2014 4:23 PM
147	Good source of practical information from knowledgable people	10/22/2014 4:21 PM
148	Membership in OCH is the most cost effective way to have access to professional videos of great interest. Once your membership is active, that access is easy and quick for all videos in the OCH library.	10/22/2014 4:21 PM
149	If you enjoy boats whether using, building, or just looking at fine craftsmanship you will like OffCenterHarbor. Also there are endless instruction videos to watch. From seamanship to building your own boat OCH with any how-to videos. It's all great.	10/22/2014 4:12 PM
150	Membership in OCH has met all my expectations. Wonderful videos, tutorials, and discussions involving mastercraftsmen and women, sailing adventures, and advocates of the wooden boat tradition.	10/22/2014 4:08 PM
151	For a small annual membership fee you will have access to many videos that all sailors should see. They are informative and will have a profound effect on your ongoing enjoyment of boating, both for safety and skills.	10/22/2014 4:02 PM
152	It's a great site for classic boating and DYI'ers. I consider the site a video magazine of sorts and have since dropped a couple of subscriptions in favor of this medium. I also enjoy the historical perspective offered in the video documentaries as well.	10/22/2014 3:58 PM
153	What fun it is to see the usual suspects, and others besides, all of them the best at what they do, talking about and actually doing those wonderful things.	10/22/2014 3:53 PM
154	When things are crazy, OCH is my happy place!	10/22/2014 3:52 PM
155	Its so rich in material you'll log on for the first time and spend hours watching boats being built and sailed. And the videos are so clear you can hear the slap of the water against the sides	10/22/2014 3:51 PM
156	I love the videos produced by OCH. The quality of the production and videography is 1st class. The membership fee is well spent simply for the video content.	10/22/2014 3:51 PM
157	There is a lot of useful general boating, sailing and of course, maintenance information on the site. And the videos make one want to move to Me.	10/22/2014 3:43 PM
158	Sign up --- why wait	10/22/2014 3:36 PM
159	If you are interested in boats whatsoever. This is the one website that has it all. All kinds of instructional videos. Professional tips. If for just a moment you are back on the water with stunning videos. I liked it so much I upgraded to a lifetime membership! Just join.	10/22/2014 3:34 PM
160	In some situations the videos on various topics are far more valuable than a mere written description. Also, in the dead of winter, with the snow swirling, it is great to have these videos to help me make it to spring.	10/22/2014 3:34 PM
161	THIS SITE COVERS ALL AREAS OF INTEREST BY FOLKS WHO SHARE THERE EXPERTISE WITH CANDOR, HUMOR AND COMPETENCE. THIS IS M,Y GO TO SITE FOR BOAT BUILDING, SAILING AND ANYTHING NAUTICAL. I LOVE IT !!!	10/22/2014 3:33 PM
162	An inside and personal view of all things wooden that floats!	10/22/2014 3:30 PM
163	It is informative, entertaining, and very professionally done.	10/22/2014 3:26 PM
164	Best info. to be found anywhere!!	10/22/2014 3:24 PM

165	It's my fixed appoinment after dinner, it's great	10/22/2014 3:09 PM
166	This is a nice site, with short videos showing how to build a small sailing boat (Caledonian Yawl) and a canoe + many videos of nice boats in the yard and on the water as well as tips on boat restauration and general boat skills. The videos are typically 10-15 minutes long and of good quality. When you have looked at all that are of interest to you (for me most of them) you return to look at them again and you wait eagerly for the addition of new videos.	10/22/2014 3:05 PM
167	Look at the free film clips. The ongoing clips are better, but you need to be a member to see them. The blogs and links to other material are the icing on the cake. All of them very helpfull. I joined for one year as a member, but based on the quality I saw I became a charter lifetime member within a few months	10/22/2014 3:02 PM
168	If you work on your boat,YOU NEED TO DO THIS. If your a weekend sailor,YOU NEED TO DO THIS.	10/22/2014 3:01 PM
169	It is just pure poetry and joy. As someone who is doing a long term rebuild of a historically significant boat OCH inspires me to keep going.	10/22/2014 2:58 PM
170	If a picture is worth a thousand words, then a video is worth a million, which makes this subscription a screaming' deal!	10/22/2014 2:55 PM
171	If you love boats of any kind, or are interested in nautical history, lore, art, or anything else concerning the sea and being on it, OCH has something of interest and value for you. Shop tips, reading lists, boat handling, sail trim, seamanship, racing, cruising, small boats, ships, traditional, high tech, repair, restoration, dream boats, and personal experiences from some of the most experienced and knowledgeable seamen and women on the planet! And that's just scratching the surface!	10/22/2014 2:48 PM
172	Interesting videos targeted at us "average joes." Very good mix of videos focused on how to skills and the beauty of sailing vessels.	10/22/2014 2:45 PM
173	I really enjoy the range of topics covered from construction, maintenance, history, sail and power boat handling techniques to current events.	10/22/2014 2:42 PM
174	Great informational videos. Love the older wooden boat reviews.	10/22/2014 2:39 PM
175	Great information on boat building and sailiung techniques. Also, some spectacular videos that inspire and inform.	10/22/2014 2:38 PM
176	That they get be buddies with some of the best sailors, riggers, boatbuilders and sailmakers in the industry.....!	10/22/2014 2:36 PM
177	I they were interested in wooden and classic craft they would be very interested in the site.	10/22/2014 2:31 PM
178	If you are interested in boats, especially traditional boats, this is a great site.	10/22/2014 2:29 PM
179	If you like boats and/or sailing, there is nothing like OffCenterHarbor any where. It is the equivalent of attending a online nautical university. (Only more fun.)	10/22/2014 2:24 PM
180	It's a terrific resource for people interested in boating. My interest is especially in traditional (i.e. wooden boat) building and sailing, and this site is packed full of information. The videos are terrific and the content is superb. Along the way there's additional information about ropes, sails, wood, etc. A great web site.	10/22/2014 2:20 PM
181	High quality, educational videos are available. The plus is that they get one's juices flowing for being "out there."	10/22/2014 2:18 PM
182	Great site and place for researching boat articles.	10/22/2014 2:11 PM
183	Great site for amateur boat builders and antique boat enthusiast.	10/22/2014 2:10 PM
184	These short videos are a great way to get your marine "fix" during the off season when you cannot be on the boat.	10/22/2014 2:07 PM
185	Go for it!	10/22/2014 2:00 PM
186	This is a must subscription for anyone interested in classic and wooden boats	10/22/2014 1:58 PM
187	As a boat builder, it is wonderful to have a resource of knowledge like Off Center Harbor. There is always more to learn. How to methods and tricks of the trade from other builders is a great value to one time builders as well as professionals.	10/22/2014 1:55 PM
188	Please join. The videos are all of high quality and informative.	10/22/2014 1:50 PM
189	Great site for anyone passionate about sailing and boats. We get to experience the joy of sailing and view the incredible craftsmanship of building, repairing boats.	10/22/2014 1:48 PM
190	A wealth of information for any boater. Well worth the $29, even if only accessed a few times a year.	10/22/2014 1:42 PM

191	Grace and confidence on the water and in the workshop, to quote Bill Mayher, one of OCH's founders, often come by watching skilled others and practicing what you see. The videos offered by OCH are noteworthy for the competence of the contributors, the excellence of the videos and consistent attention to the goal of instilling that very confidence and grace.	10/22/2014 1:41 PM
192	Quality control for YouTube! Here you can watch quality videos of boat building, sailing, maintenance which have, at a minimum, been screened by knowledgeable professionals to ensure you are gaining valuable insights instead of crackpot homespun theories! I like it but once I got caught up with the back issues, I find the updates infrequent. A useful library nonetheless.	10/22/2014 1:38 PM
193	The videos are well produced and fun to watch.	10/22/2014 1:38 PM
194	Enjoy the breadth and depth of resources that are available on the website. Also, if you visit Hancock County, Maine, stop in Brooklin and visit the office and then wander down to the WoodenBoat School and Store.	10/22/2014 1:38 PM
195	It's a fun and informative web site with great photography and interesting speakers	10/22/2014 1:33 PM
196	If you have any interest in boats no matter what kind there something for that is fantastic quality.	10/22/2014 1:26 PM
197	There's a variety of wooden boat associated subject matter in very good quality digital video. I would recommend the life membership so you don't have to worry if you're getting your money's worth. On the other hand a new one year subscriber will have a backlog of videos to look at, making his $29 go a long way. For me, not all the subject matter is that interesting, but that will be true for anyone.	10/22/2014 1:26 PM
198	Informative site. Some of the very best videos you'll find. It's all about boats, primarily wooden boats, beautiful boats, fun boats, useful boats. Just a nice site about boats. Not to mention how to build, maintain and use boats.	10/22/2014 1:25 PM
199	No true sailor can escape being entranced by the beauty, romance and wisdom of our sailing heritage as captured in the wonderful videos produced by OffCenterHarbor.	10/22/2014 1:24 PM
200	It is the best place to be when you can not be sailing.	10/22/2014 1:24 PM
201	Great videos and wonderful photography!	10/22/2014 1:21 PM
202	Of the many great features on the Off Center Harbor website, the video boat building series are my personal favorite. The Fox Canoe or a Caledonia Yawl builds are fantastic. More than a video these step-by-step instructions are more like having personal tutoring sessions in the process of building boats from scratch. Ant they don't skip the difficult stuff or gloss over important details of the build.	10/22/2014 1:19 PM
203	It is simply the most interesting website for those who like wooden boats. Once or twice a week I browse through the site and select a video or two to watch. There are all sorts of videos covering lots of topics so I never run out of interesting things to see - then back to work before the boss catches me.	10/22/2014 1:18 PM
204	Awesome site for people interested in sailing and construction of boats. Videos are outstanding!	10/22/2014 1:16 PM
205	There is something here for everyone. I have been fascinated with the knowledge that is available and the sharing that is done. Thumbs up!	10/22/2014 1:14 PM
206	It has helped me maintain my wooden ketch.	10/22/2014 1:11 PM
207	The quality of the videos is very high. There is a range of subject matter that goes from how-to for boat building to boat handling to viewing beautiful boats for no other reason than enjoying how beautiful they are. You get to see and hear the real experts in an area... areas ranging from sail making to choosing power tools. I have a fiberglass boat and I love high technology, while OffCenterHarbor is mostly about traditional wooden boats - Doesn't matter - if you love boats you'll find more than enough videos you enjoy to justify the price.	10/22/2014 1:05 PM
208	Invaluable videos that I have returned to many times.	10/22/2014 12:59 PM
209	Do it. Value is there. I'm a long standing member and plan to remain a member. Not every topic is of interest but what's perfect? I've invited friends to join and you will too.	10/22/2014 12:59 PM
210	If you have the time to spend watching videos on the computer and you like wooden boats, you will love this site.	10/22/2014 12:58 PM
211	Tremendous value! Such a time-saver for those of us searching the net for the best info on seamanship, boating, and boat building. Imagine having 24 / 7 access to your own boating experts! Like attending a class, but with the added advantage of being able to revisit the info whenever you need to.	10/22/2014 12:58 PM
212	Maynard Bray on sculling is like Jacques Pepin on cooking: expert, accessible, and even better on video than on the printed page.	10/22/2014 12:57 PM
213	Great sailing videos! Wonderful, interesting people.	10/22/2014 12:56 PM

214	It's great! I regularly seek information about boats and boating, the construction methods and materials used in boat building, the artistic, functional, design and historical aspects of traditional and modern boat creation. I usually turn to the library or internet for my information needs. Off Center Harbour is better in some ways because...it's like you're right there...up close...seeing and listening in on a conversation that might only be available to a very privileged few! If boat building is your interest, many of the videos depict great detail in the step by step building sequences. If you're the type of person that seeks this kind of information, not including OCH will leave a gaping hole in your collection of resource sources. From a technical point of view, they use a video format which is completely free of any advertising. In this very pure form it runs very smoothly with no glitches or distractions and displays a consistent high quality - more like watching a movie. On a much less intense note, if you are merely inspired by the imagery of beautiful traditional wooden boats in a clean video format, where else are you going to turn to? Go for it!	10/22/2014 12:52 PM
215	Best source for a variety of articles on boating and wooden boats. Blogs also very interesting and informative.	10/22/2014 12:50 PM
216	It's all fun listening and learning varied subjects, and the photos are pretty, too.	10/22/2014 12:50 PM
217	A great informative site that is an easy and helpful read	10/22/2014 12:45 PM
218	When it comes to learning new building skills, nothing beats seeing it rather than reading about it. If you, like me, do other things to make a living, you don't have time to go to boatbuilding school. That's what I love about these videos. I can watch them when I have a moment, and I learn something from an old pro who knows their stuff.	10/22/2014 12:44 PM
219	If you like wooden boats. You will love OHC	10/22/2014 12:44 PM
220	OCH is a unique web site devoted to everything boats. It offers items on history, building and repairing, education on many aspects of boating from maintenance to operation of boats. It deals almost exclusively with wooden boats. OCH encourages dialog with the guides and other members,	10/22/2014 12:42 PM
221	OCH literally allows you to sail 24/7, and it literally makes actual sailing even more enjoyable because you are better informed. And, if you have the courage to do the math, it costs a heck of a lot less than real sailing!	10/22/2014 12:42 PM
222	Yes, do it	10/22/2014 12:42 PM
223	That some of the video is very good, but most is not in depth on subjects. Some appear to be ads for builders or designers. Would recommend that people with an interest in wooden boats join at least once to learn about your site.	10/22/2014 12:40 PM
224	It's by far my favorite website and I am a person of varied interests from sailboats to motorcycles, guitars, cars etc. Why is it my favorite? well it contains a vast wealth of information we can learn from, be inspired by, and just immerse ourselves in. In my opinion, it's the finest example of the web's true potential to educate, entertain and engage. I think I've watched nearly every video including every episode of "How to Build A Caledonia Yawl". Look I've even bought friends gift memberships so they could enjoy it as well!	10/22/2014 12:39 PM
225	Great and fun way to learn more about many aspects of boating.	10/22/2014 12:38 PM
226	I really look forward to new videos being posted.	10/22/2014 12:35 PM
227	It's awesome. Something for every level. Easy to maneuver through, nicely laid out. Some very educational (loving the sail trim videos) and some just fun to watch and read.	10/22/2014 12:34 PM
228	A great site ideal for anybody with an interest in all things maritime	10/22/2014 12:33 PM
229	more hype than substance.	10/22/2014 12:32 PM
230	Very, very informative. Just fun to look at when I should be working!!!	10/22/2014 12:32 PM
231	I feed the fascination or is it passion about stories, experiences, and information concerning unique boats and boating.	10/22/2014 12:32 PM
232	I have embarked on a total restoration of an old Potter 15. All of the video series have provided me with a wealth of information to keep me highly motivated during the process.	10/22/2014 12:31 PM
233	Good videos with a wide scope of interest	10/22/2014 12:30 PM
234	Richly enjoyable, educational, an wonderful opportunity to savor works of maritime art, old, new, and in the making.	10/22/2014 12:29 PM
235	I have found the videos and their lessons, as well as stories, not only very interesting, but very helpful, and very well done!	10/22/2014 12:23 PM
236	Great in depth instruction. I particularly love the video on basic knot. The videos are down to earth, and real.	10/22/2014 12:23 PM

237	Well worth the cost, the narration and variety makes it much better than a magazine.	10/22/2014 12:21 PM
238	This is an enjoyable site for those interested in all things in recreational boating including history.	10/22/2014 12:20 PM
239	Great videos, well done and very interesting.	10/22/2014 12:19 PM
240	This was the best money I have spent on my boating hobby. The two series detailing the construction of the Caledonia Yawl and Fox Canoe are worth the price by them selves, but there is also a lot of other great material about tools and boat handling.	10/22/2014 12:17 PM
241	Fabulous videos	10/22/2014 12:12 PM
242	information you will not find any other place, particularly for classic sailing fans and cruisers.	10/22/2014 12:12 PM
243	OCH is as essential to the amateur boat builder as a good plane, the right tools and the right technique ready for immediate access 24/7, and the benefit compounds as the boat comes together.	10/22/2014 12:08 PM
244	do it	10/22/2014 12:08 PM
245	A great place to spend quality time on nautical subjects	10/22/2014 12:08 PM
246	I don't remember how I found the website originally, but I started looking at the Bill Thomas videos of him building the Fox Canoe. Since I was in the initial phases of finishing one for a friend, I found it very helpful and interesting. I then have gone through all of Geoff Kerr's videos on his Caledonia Yawl as well as many others. I find all of them very helpful and inspiring. Although I am in the midwest, my heart is by the ocean where I grew up in CT.	10/22/2014 12:06 PM
247	There is nothing else like OCH. Practical videos on building, tools, methods are excellent. Concentrates on wooden boats but is not obsessive about that. Some of the content is just plain gorgeous.	10/22/2014 12:05 PM
248	It's an interesting site full of videos featuring building and sailing wooden boats.	10/22/2014 12:05 PM
249	If boats of all kinds are your "thing," then this is the place for you! It is a boat lovers paradise, with a strong nod to traditional craft, traditional values and traditional skills. If you dream a dream of time on the water, then come on board! Off Center Harbor is a community of practical dreamers who share your passions and they will give you the tools to bring the dream to life.	10/22/2014 12:05 PM
250	It's the best sailboat, boatbuilders and boatlife video website the world.	10/22/2014 12:02 PM
251	If you have any interest at all in boating, it's traditions, building, using, enjoying traditional boats. Seamanship for the recreational boater. Family activities involving boats. This is the place to come get your feet wet, re-wetted. Get inspired, I have a set of plans for a Caledonian Yawl, and now I have a COMPLETE VIDEO SERIES by Jeff Kerr of Two Daughters Boat Works taking me step by step through the whole process of building one, thanks to Off Center Harbor! Come on in, the water's fine.	10/22/2014 12:01 PM
252	Good selection of both interesting and useful subjects of interest to a wide range of boat-related subjects. Many subjects not available elsewhere.	10/22/2014 11:58 AM
253	Great source of very detailed, accurate information.	10/22/2014 11:57 AM
254	The best website I've visited for boat lovers, sailors in particular. If you have a special interest in wooden boats, you have to join!	10/22/2014 11:56 AM
255	Give it a try	10/22/2014 11:51 AM
256	Just join. You won't find a more inspirational and beautifully delivered site.	10/22/2014 11:48 AM
257	At OffCenterHarbor there is a bunch of friends deeply in love with sailing (both under sail and under power),eager to share their knowledge (and passion, too!) with as many people as they can gather, So don't stay longer on the wharf, looking and loitering: jump aboard!	10/22/2014 11:43 AM
258	Really good videos on all aspects of boating. I love it! I'm a visual person I guess, so they help out in that respect. Just really neat to see stuff first hand.	10/22/2014 11:42 AM
259	Videos are extra-ordinary and always bring an emotional reaction to the heart!	10/22/2014 11:42 AM
260	Apart from the technology displayed, it enhances the utility of your Video installation with the beauty of the presentations, and supplies insight to the maritime history of our country. Educational, beautiful, and historical all in one.	10/22/2014 11:41 AM
261	It is very informative and inspiring. The videos are beautiful and well done, and the forums are helpful. It's great; you should join.	10/22/2014 11:41 AM

262	Sharing experiences while on the water or in the shop and performing tasks professionally for others to follow in a safe and responsible manner all leads to pleasure with boats. OCH does all this and more on a regular basis.	10/22/2014 11:41 AM
263	OffCenterHarbor videos gave me the confidence to begin building my own boat. The quality is outstanding and the videos offer detailed information you just can't get from a magazine.	10/22/2014 11:39 AM
264	The highest quality vids out there. Obviously put together by folks who love boats and who want to share that love with others.	10/22/2014 11:38 AM
265	It is informative and interesting.	10/22/2014 11:38 AM
266	Just a great way to spend some time on a nasty foul weather day. You think you know something about sail trim? watch the series with sailmaker Haus.	10/22/2014 11:37 AM
267	For perhaps five decades, I've belonged to the "Other People's Boat Club." I've never built any wooden boats other than a serious sailing ship model -- again, years ago. OCH, Benjamin Mendlowitz' calendar. and Wooden Boat Magazine each exhibit superb production values. So, this "arm chair sailor" enjoys the "catnip" provided by this troika of superb visual delights. I've even managed to learn a few things about refastening a hull, cutting a sail, and smoking along in a white-capped Maine bay. OffCenterHarbor.com is worth the price, many times over.	10/22/2014 11:36 AM
268	The website has good content and the videos are well done without annoying music. All the video subjects are done by people that know the subject. I have learned a lot from the videos. Even the comments and blog segments are insightful. It seems like the site is put out by a group of folks that just love what they do and want to share it with others.	10/22/2014 11:35 AM
269	OCH offers instruction and motivation videos that are professionally produced with advice and guidance from recognized leaders of the small boat community. Whether you are interested in power or sail, building or operating...and sometimes eating, the OCH video library will have something of interest for you. Additionally the blog offers insight to the thoughts and experience of the community leaders and the opportunity for you to comment and ask questions.	10/22/2014 11:34 AM
270	This website is a varied, entertaining, and informative resource for all topics nautical. People who are interested in or love power and sailboats old and new will enjoy OCH membership. The video library connects viewers with enthusiasts, craftsmen, professionals skilled in many facets of the boating world, and through them, I have deepened my knowledge of nautical heritage as well as my practical skills, and these I've used on the water and in the boatbuilding class I teach.	10/22/2014 11:32 AM
271	If you love wooden boats, this is the place for you. Great videos, tons of useful information, and--don't forget this--wonderful pictures of gorgeous boats!	10/22/2014 11:31 AM
272	If they are considering, they should join. No other way to see and learn so many beautiful nautical arts.	10/22/2014 11:30 AM
273	I've learned some great points and techniques from the videos that I don't think could have been conveyed as clearly had I just been reading a magazine article about a particular topic. We all learn differently and visual demonstrations are very helpful for me.	10/22/2014 11:29 AM
274	Great videos. Insider info from boat designers, builders & sailors. Best to be a "life" member for $250 with no renewals to bother with!	10/22/2014 11:26 AM
275	Off Center Harbor videos are a wonderful way to vicariously visit a shop or go for a sail "in the comfort of your armchair."	10/22/2014 11:26 AM
276	Great, informative and interesting video series. I've not found the rest of the site that informative/interesting.	10/22/2014 11:25 AM
277	Definitely join. The cost is very reasonable, the information is excellent, the boats are remarkable, and the production quality is top notch.	10/22/2014 11:24 AM
278	Just join ! This site represents good value for its small price and will add to your nautical knowledge in many small and large ways.	10/22/2014 11:24 AM
279	This is the friendliest and best boat learning site I have ever come across. The staff on this site are extremely knowledgeable and innovative and accessible! It is wonderful to find a site that is available for the boater at every level. A real plus for frog pond and open blue water enthusiasts! I cannot thank you enough for your support!	10/22/2014 11:24 AM
280	As a member of OCH I can (and do!) indulge my lifelong fantasy of small boats, sail boats, wooden boats, history, craftsmanship, and seamanship. The seductive lure of form, design, structure and clever craftsmanship is explored with great skill and reverence. It's a very reasonable price to pay to be able to escape at any time even if it's just for a few minutes.	10/22/2014 11:23 AM
281	Hard to find a better way to spend your lazy or weather socked day.	10/22/2014 11:22 AM

282	Well worth the investment. The videos especially.	10/22/2014 11:19 AM
283	It's a great site for folks interested in coastal Maine and in small boats. It facilitates dreaming about boat building and sailing. Readers of WoodenBoat will love it.	10/22/2014 11:18 AM
284	In the winter months when the joy of boating (sail or motor) is greatly reduced, the videos are a very pleasurable way to keep the love alive. In addition to the joy of watching beautiful craft on the water the instructional videos, even for the experienced sailors, educate, and refresh our knowledge and ability. My only problem is not enough time in my life to watch the abundant videos. For about the same price as a subscription to a magazine you get more incredible videos than you have time to watch.	10/22/2014 11:17 AM
285	VERY ENJOYABLE AND INFORMATIVE	10/22/2014 11:16 AM
286	Do it. You won't regret it.	10/22/2014 11:15 AM
287	Great videos. Very informative. Clear and fun to watch.	10/22/2014 11:15 AM
288	The service offers interesting, sometimes inspiring, videos with a subject matter and quality unavailable elsewhere.	10/22/2014 11:15 AM
289	If you are interested in wooden boats, this is a terrific way to enjoy your interest.	10/22/2014 11:15 AM
290	Great videos And lots of education	10/22/2014 11:12 AM
291	You will not regret it. The video access alone could be its own membership.	10/22/2014 11:12 AM
292	If you're looking for a place to get/see answers to the questions you're gonna run up against sailing, this is the place for you. And they do it with well made videos and well founded explanations.	10/22/2014 11:12 AM
293	OCH is a wealth of information for anyone who likes being on the water or in the woodshop.	10/22/2014 11:11 AM
294	Excellent resource for traditional boats and boating. Inspires the dream of boating.	10/22/2014 11:08 AM
295	If you're an "armchair sailor," there's no better collection of traditional boating videos. If you're an old (or young) salt, with a devotion to traditional craft and their updated descendants, there is no better collection of video tours. You can learn who's doing what, how it's done, and how to do it. Be a better boater! Join OCH!	10/22/2014 11:07 AM
296	If you have a passion for wooden boats or just a curious interest, OCH will provide excellent instruction, well-informed history, positive affirmation, and always, candy for the eye.	10/22/2014 11:01 AM
297	There is some interesting and informative material, but the coverage is somewhat limited at this time. Hopefully this will improve with time.	10/22/2014 10:58 AM
298	Cool video essays that are really well presented and entertaining. Perfect for anyone who enjoys "messaging about in boats".	10/22/2014 10:55 AM
299	Very informative.	10/22/2014 10:53 AM
300	This web-based "magazine" is a great supplement to the other publication available to small and traditional boat aficionados. If you lie awake at night like I do, thinking about boats, a visit to OCH is a good way to ensure a windward direction to your eventual dreams. The links to other resources, like Tips From A Shipwright are valuable, too.	10/22/2014 10:53 AM
301	Very informative and well done	10/22/2014 10:53 AM
302	IF YOU ARE A WOOD BOAT FAN - ABSOLUTELY THE BEST SITE GOING	10/22/2014 10:51 AM
303	Think twice...!!!	10/22/2014 10:47 AM
304	I'd tell them that the videos are great; informative and educational	10/22/2014 10:47 AM
305	If you enjoy "Simply Messing About In Boats" (Wind in the Willows, by Kenneth Grahame) this is the website for you - truly unique and one of a kind. As someone that is still working on a sailboat restoration that began two years ago, I have found the information on this site to be both educational and inspirational.	10/22/2014 10:46 AM
306	No matter how experienced you are, there is always something to learn in the videos. They are always enjoyable, even ones that have no relevance to me.	10/22/2014 10:43 AM
307	Whether one owns a boat made of wood or any other material membership in OffCenterHarbor.com continues to fuel one's love for all things boats. The videos and other contents offer so much more than just splinters from lovely wooden boats, and the material is very much applicable to all boats. It is certainly nice to relax with material that isn't stilted by advertisers' messages!	10/22/2014 10:41 AM

308	If you are at all intrigued by owning, admiring, working on or just plain enjoying beautiful wooden vessels, then Off Center Harbor is an absolute bargain. The quality of their products and offerings is excellent and they go the extra mile to make the interactive experience enjoyable and easy to use. It is well worth the price of admission.	10/22/2014 10:40 AM
309	I really enjoy the videos. I have a Doug Hylan designed boat that I maintain myself. There always seem to be some good tidbits in the painting and varnishing videos. And I've enjoyed the Benjamin Mendlowitz outboard docking, etc. videos too. Again, even though I've been operating boats for many years I've found a couple of gems there too.	10/22/2014 10:38 AM
310	The videos alone are worth the price of admission!	10/22/2014 10:37 AM
311	Videos present good technical information in a calm comfortable manner.	10/22/2014 10:36 AM
312	OffCenterHarbor is really a wonderful site! I learn something with every single video. It's a great group of highly skilled, highly experienced folks sharing what they have learned. I feel like I'm barking with the big dogs now!	10/22/2014 10:32 AM
313	Well prepared videos on a wide range of boating subjects.	10/22/2014 10:32 AM
314	Excellent videos on generally unique aspects of boating/sailing.	10/22/2014 10:32 AM
315	It's a good way to get a sailing "fix" in the winter. Lots of great videos to plow through the snow when it hits.	10/22/2014 10:31 AM
316	Valuable, practical information presented in fun to watch short videos. Good stuff from good people.	10/22/2014 10:30 AM
317	This is a wonderful site for anyone who has a interest in traditional boating. All videos are very well done ,inspiring and educational as well as great fun to watch.	10/22/2014 10:29 AM
318	The videos are not only beautifully filmed, their content is like none other that I've found.	10/22/2014 10:28 AM
319	As a new sailor and beginner boat builder, OCH has been a fun, eye opening, enjoyable, and educating resource for me.	10/22/2014 10:28 AM
320	the subjects span a great variety of topics. However if your a do it yourself craftsman, this is a must join website.	10/22/2014 10:27 AM
321	If you love sailing, you'll love OCH.	10/22/2014 10:26 AM
322	Inspiring videos!	10/22/2014 10:24 AM
323	Don't volunteer to fill out surveys (This question requires an answer.)	10/22/2014 10:23 AM
324	Very entertaining if you like interesting stories about sailors and their passions for boats.	10/22/2014 10:19 AM
325	They have some very informative videos	10/22/2014 10:18 AM
326	This is like going to the best Wooden Boat Festival ever and getting to listen to the most knowledgeable sailors about their best topics.	10/22/2014 10:17 AM
327	awesome videos, very well done and sweet topics.	10/22/2014 10:17 AM
328	The videos are great. They are very informative, professionally produced, and the next best thing to being there in person.	10/22/2014 10:17 AM
329	This is a very interesting website. I enjoy the features they have on everything from woodworking techniques to sailing a finely finished project. Sailing on classic yachts is an honor and they don't dissapoint. The commentary is intelligent and interesting. I've become a lifetime member and enjoy every aspect of watching them grow. They have brought, to social media, the joy of sailing, purely for the "joy of sailing".	10/22/2014 10:16 AM
330	If you've ever purchase copies of Wooden Boat Magazine then you'll like the site. It has similar content but the videos can sometimes give a better understanding of the information presented. If you are new to sailing or wooden boats then it is a must.	10/22/2014 10:16 AM
331	Great videos and you have to watch them to receive good value for your membership fee.	10/22/2014 10:16 AM
332	Do IT.	10/22/2014 10:16 AM
333	Great place to learn and just experience the shared joy of traditional wood boats	10/22/2014 10:15 AM
334	Really nice and interesting videos - nice variety	10/22/2014 10:14 AM
335	A most enjoyable way to be transported back to the sea whenever the spirit moves, even while landlocked in my studio.Informative and entertaining with excellent photography	10/22/2014 10:14 AM

336	OCH gives me that wonderful, peaceful sense of being close to the water, more than anything except an actual spin around the bouys. You can go sailing in winter. You may not want to go sailing in summer. But OCH is always available.	10/22/2014 10:13 AM
337	Clear and esthetically pleasing visuals, plenty of information and a great way to stay in contact with the community of people who get solace from a relationship with the ocean and the boats we all love.	10/22/2014 10:12 AM
338	That OCH is a novel concept; makes checking my email fun; educational; interesting; and just plain cool.	10/22/2014 10:11 AM
339	Joining OCH was one of the best decisions I made. Usually I stay away from online subscriptions. There is a ton of information available accompanied by beautiful photography. The Adventuress video alone is worth the money. Sign up, you'll wish you had done it sooner.	10/22/2014 10:11 AM
340	Great information, really worth the money. Wish they would add a little more variety to the presenters.	10/22/2014 10:10 AM
341	After 30 years in the boat business I still have a lot to learn. The videos and articles are extremely informative. There is nothing better than getting up early on a Sunday morning, when the house is quite, and watching their "how to" videos.	10/22/2014 10:09 AM
342	There are lots of vidoes and articles available on the internet, but not many of the quality offered by OCH. Not all the videos that OCH produce are of direct relevance to me, but they are all about boats one way or another, so nearly all of them are of interest in some way, and occasionally the information on the site serves as a reference for a real life problem. Whether you own a boat or not, this site is one of the best for people with an interest in sailing and boating matters, and the amount of information available is growing continually.	10/22/2014 10:09 AM
343	Everything about boating at your fingertips. If your interest is not already on file they will find it.	10/22/2014 10:04 AM
344	OCH is a great resource for anyone interested in the sea and boats - not just boat building but also, sailing, photography and historic boats. For someone living a long way from the sea, OCH provides the opportunity to relive old memories and through beautiful videos, to participate (even though vicariously) in new adventures.	10/22/2014 10:04 AM
345	Off Center Harbor continues to create wonderful videos that inspire me to get back out on the water and enjoy my boat more. The videos also help me stay connected to all that is happening in the classic boat community.	10/22/2014 10:04 AM
346	Don't hesitate	10/22/2014 10:03 AM
347	The videos and resources are awesome!	10/22/2014 10:03 AM
348	OCH provides an incredible access to information on boat building, sailing, boating, and related activities in text, images and videos which are prepared by experts in their field. It is hard to shut down when you are on the site as there is always one more article you just want to check out!	10/22/2014 10:03 AM
349	I've been around boats of all kinds since my boyhood in the 50's. Your website came to me through my affiliation with Pygmy Boat Co. I saw one video and joined immediately. Since that time I've thoroughly enjoyed my membership and learned more than I could have imagined. You provide a powerful repository of collective talent and a culture of cooperation and generosity. I'm proud to be a member of an organization that totally understands the meaning of great customer service. Visiting your site is one of the major highlights of the week.	10/22/2014 10:02 AM
350	Very informative. The videos are top notch. Glad I joined. Because of Jeff Kerrs vidio on the caledonia yawl I've started thinking about building a lapstrake boat now.	10/22/2014 10:01 AM
351	nothing	10/22/2014 10:00 AM
352	It is a fulfilling membership. I find inspiration and motivation towards my own projects. The tangible history helps me keep life in perspective and focus on what is important to me.	10/22/2014 9:59 AM
353	Great source of information on many aspects of wooden boats. I learn a great deal from the build videos, especially the Jeff Kerr's Caledonia Yawl.	10/22/2014 9:58 AM
354	There are some good videos, high quality. Plenty of how to stuff but not enough boat stuff--designs, cruising Maine or PNW locales on classic wood boats and small boats	10/22/2014 9:58 AM
355	OCH is a uniquely interesting and informative space, providing insights and viewpoints that you would have difficulty locating elsewhere. You're here and looking, the interest is already there; go ahead and jump the rest of the way in, you will not regret it!	10/22/2014 9:57 AM
356	If you have a interest in boats, wooden or otherwise, this is a great site.	10/22/2014 9:57 AM
357	It's a goldmine of good and interesting information. You will NOT regret joining OCH.	10/22/2014 9:57 AM

358	JOIN!! The information that OCH has to offer is un paralleled and presented in an informal but professional format. The folks at OCH are passionate about what they do and it shows. You will be not be disappointed.	10/22/2014 9:55 AM
359	You will learn a lot from the "instructional" videos, and will truly enjoy the others. The Guide Posts and comments sections are entertaining and informative. I don't know where else one would go to obtain this kind of insight, knowledge and experience with wooden boats.	10/22/2014 9:51 AM
360	Just do it, you will be amazed at how much you will enjoy it all.	10/22/2014 9:51 AM
361	I'm building a small Beach Pea pea pod. For me the wisdom of Geoff Kerr in his series of step by step videos on building the Caledonia yawl has been invaluable.	10/22/2014 9:51 AM
362	No matter what your specific focus is in boating, OffCenterHarbor has an informative video which will further your interests.	10/22/2014 9:51 AM
363	Excellent resource for boat enthusiasts. I personally enjoy the wood boat building technical vids. Ex. Caledonia Yawl Series, the Canoe series, etc.	10/22/2014 9:50 AM
364	Although I am not a sailor, I can dream can't I ! OffCenterHarbor has wonderful videos showing how beautiful sailing boats are designed and built. The craftsmanship required is truly amazing. Not only that but the videos give great tips for maintaining these boats and sailing tips for people of all ages. Reading on the blog and "Guide Post" about the sailing experiences of OCH members is very interesting. In addition to the beautiful coast of Maine, members have sailed and worked on sailing vessels all over the world and give their own experiences on the blog.	10/22/2014 9:50 AM
365	OCH has hit the nail on the head! They combine accessible information from friendly experts who are the tops in their fields with sparkling cinematography. When you watch Maynard Bray talking about sculling or Carol Hasse talking about sails you know that not only are they the best but that you'd be comfortable sailing around the cove in a dinghy with them. OCH always keeps their mission of encouraging all people, including families with kids, to get out on the water front and center by providing information and inspiration.	10/22/2014 9:50 AM
366	OffCenterHarbor.com is a great resource for anyone interested in wooden boats. Although not involved in the industry in any way, I have, and still do, enjoy the videos and blogs immensely. Access to this site is easily worth the membership fee.	10/22/2014 9:50 AM
367	If you are interested in building, the videos give a clear understanding of some of the more complicated task and the ability to go back over and watch the same thing time and time again, allows you to see things you missed the first time.	10/22/2014 9:49 AM
368	I've subscribed to many good boating publications over the years, and enjoyed most of them, but OffCenterHarbor really is unique in it's presentation and a lot of it's content. No matter what you're currently reading or viewing, OffCenterHarbor is a worthwhile addition.	10/22/2014 9:48 AM
369	The site can be good	10/22/2014 9:47 AM
370	If you like sailing, if you like the Northeast Coast, if you appreciate the things you like being done by knowledgeable people, join OffCenterHarbor now.	10/22/2014 9:46 AM
371	If you are into non-plastic boats and boating, then you must join this website.	10/22/2014 9:45 AM
372	Worth it if you appreciate old wooden boats	10/22/2014 9:44 AM
373	If you have saltwater in your veins, you love the Oceans and the waterways, if you love the lines of a well built boat,... You've GOT to join OCH!!	10/22/2014 9:43 AM
374	Great source for small boat information. Down home type format.	10/22/2014 9:43 AM
375	Great selection of videos on many subjects. Excellent photography.	10/22/2014 9:41 AM
376	Covers all kinds of topics. Informative and interesting as well as those just about admiring beautiful boats.	10/22/2014 9:40 AM
377	This is a wonderful resource for novice and seasoned sailors, not to mention a great place to spend cold and dark winter evenings.	10/22/2014 9:39 AM
378	OCH is the best site on the internet to people having an interest in all things nautical. From large boats to small, Sailboats (my favorite) to power or paddle, classic to workboat...their videos cover all aspects of performance underway, comfort at anchor, types of construction, maintenance and various useful aspects of a variety of boats...not to mention the personalities of those who sail and maintain those boats.	10/22/2014 9:38 AM
379	If you have an interest in boating, and/or building a boat, then this is for you. Well worth the investment.	10/22/2014 9:38 AM

380	My greenhorn ignorance evaporates - and sometimes gets just blown away far better than via a printed page even with photos. Say your are primarily interested in sailing. There is huge expertise available but OCH's powerboat instruction will transfer!	10/22/2014 9:37 AM
381	No matter what your skill level is you will find the different subjects informative and entertaining. The library is priceless.	10/22/2014 9:34 AM
382	OffCenterHarbor is a learning site bar none. It will provide information, give gentle moments of tranquility, and allow you to savor the joy of sailing and boating in general. The craftsmanship is the best to be found. Enough said!	10/22/2014 9:34 AM
383	High quality mix of instructional videos as well as "eye candy" videos of beautiful classic boats.	10/22/2014 9:33 AM
384	I don't think my wife and I have watched something and not learnt from it. We like the people you talk too they have a real warmth about what they do. Its nice to have the eye candy but also the instruction.	10/22/2014 9:32 AM
385	OCH is one of the best sites I've run across. The membership fee is a bargain because of the interesting and informative videos, if for no other reason. I mean GREAT videos.	10/22/2014 9:30 AM
386	The videos offer enough information to help you learn something, not just highlights.	10/22/2014 9:29 AM
387	Why haven't you joined already? There's a wealth of information on everything boat related. If you own a boat, if your thinking of buying a boat, if you're building or restoring a boat - you need to join.	10/22/2014 9:29 AM
388	Most people worry about spending money on a website subscription, justifying this because there is so much free content on the web. Well, OCH.com is not your ordinary website, and is well worth the money. You can view videos on specific boats, locations, and tools. You can watch a multi-part series on the entire building process of a few boats. To top that off, you have articles, blogs, and comments that all enhance the value of this site. Do yourself a favor, and subscribe for a year. You will not be sorry.	10/22/2014 9:29 AM
389	Great content. Too expensive.	10/22/2014 9:28 AM
390	The videos are made in Brooklin, Maine (think EB White and his boatbuilding sons) by a professional filmmaker (Steve Stone), a renowned photographer (Ben Mendlowitz) and their boatbuilding associates (including Maynard Bray) - all with first-hand and on-going experience. If you love wooden boats and Maine you will love these videos.	10/22/2014 9:25 AM
391	If you are interested in any of the following OCH maybe just for you (two or more and it's a must!). - woodenboats - sailing - woodworking/boatbuilding - classic boats - great video & photography - Coast of Maine	10/22/2014 9:22 AM
392	if you have a love of the historic boats large and small..... the variety of interesting info at your fingertips is fabulous.	10/22/2014 9:21 AM
393	The website is worth every penny, even just for the videos - the quality of each and every single one is outstanding. But with all the other blogs, guide posts, and more, sometimes you feel embarrassed to be paying so LITTLE. What a tremendous value.	10/22/2014 9:21 AM
394	The offerings at OCH are not available anywhere else that I know of. All are of high quality and many are one of a kind experiences that I never imagined I would have access to. Do yourself a favor, it would be cheap at twice the price.	10/22/2014 9:19 AM
395	There's a lot of valuable, interesting, and informative information contained in this website, not to mention the entertainment value.	10/22/2014 9:18 AM
396	Well worth it.	10/22/2014 9:17 AM
397	To paraphrase our friends down the road, video access to experience.	10/22/2014 9:16 AM
398	Great site for anyone interested in classic boating.	10/22/2014 9:16 AM
399	Great information for anyone interested in boating and the people who build them. Also, great videos on family and kids' fascination with boats and being on the water. Videos are very professionally done.	10/22/2014 9:15 AM
400	Great variety of top quality videos presented by experts in their field	10/22/2014 9:15 AM
401	If you are into boating you should not miss these video's., Veru interesting and informative. I look forward to every e-mail.	10/22/2014 9:13 AM
402	Join! Absolutely great source of news, skills education, and communications with the traditional boat building, using, admiring world of like minded boat loving folks. I only hope I have a very long life as I am a Life Member and there is so much to see and do with OCH and not an infinite amount of time to do it!	10/22/2014 9:12 AM

403	Regardless of the season, OCH provides a warm calm harbor full of nautical adventure, dreams and inspiration.	10/22/2014 9:12 AM
404	The professional quality of the videos and other material is outstanding. I have learned a great deal and also enjoy browsing the site.	10/22/2014 9:11 AM
405	Good wuality	10/22/2014 9:11 AM
406	That it is pretty much only about wooden boats.	10/22/2014 9:11 AM
407	When I first discovered OCH I was so happy to find a site like this and since joining I have been very impressed with the quality and subject of all the OCH videos. Since joining I have been able to go through the whole collection of videos at my leisure. OCH seems to be continually updating their collection with excellent videos. My husband never joins anything but I persuaded him to join OCH and I can't get him away from it!! ...Except maybe when dinner is on the table :)	10/22/2014 9:10 AM
408	Beautiful boats, useful maintenance tips, great boat building videos. Opportunity to make use of ideas from those with experience. Learn something new with each video, great photography. Educational for adults and kids, encourages family time and if you have a boat, know how to use it, maintain it, you will enjoy it more.	10/22/2014 9:10 AM
409	I find Off Center Harbor's content touching, fun, entertaining, and educational. There is much to enjoy here: classic boats, beautiful places and stories, and valued voices. You'll also find ways to add to your knowledge and skills: boat handling, boat building, even sail-making and drawing. Video offers that added dimension that sometimes still photos and words can not convey (although I still value the printed page!)	10/22/2014 9:06 AM
410	Everything available on OCH is useful, interesting, informative and entertaining. Whether you are a novice, an expert or anything in between, there is a wealth of valuable ideas, techniques and perspectives that you can put to use right away or pull out of your mental tool box when the future offers you an opportunity to benefit from the experience of others.	10/22/2014 9:06 AM
411	Join now. You will be glad that you did.	10/22/2014 9:05 AM
412	This website is unique, in that it deals with all the aspects of working and playing on the water, from sail construction to the proper way to row. Its emphasis on wooden boats is due to its location in an area where wood was the traditional resource for construction of vessels, large and small. Being a member at OCH has been a really happy experience for me and my friends who have also joined.	10/22/2014 9:04 AM
413	OCH is a wonderful resource for anyone interested in boatbuilding, rowing, sailing, or just loves boats in general. The value I have received from my membership has far exceeded the cost of my lifetime membership. I visit the site several times a week, probably more than any other membership web site I belong to. As the Executive Director of a new youth boatbuilding nonprofit, I see OCH as a tremendous resource for me and the organization.	10/22/2014 9:04 AM
414	It's a great place to get educated on all things about boats.	10/22/2014 9:04 AM
415	Well worth trying. Instructive videos are very well done.	10/22/2014 9:02 AM
416	I have found OCH to be an invaluable resource, one that continues to grow. The videos are authoritative and have excellent production values. They cover all aspects of boating from building from scratch to boat handling. And it's all from respected authorities.	10/22/2014 9:02 AM
417	That it is informative and fun!	10/22/2014 9:01 AM
418	Whether you sail or build or mess about in boats or enjoy the beauty of a well-trimmed sail or a well lined off boat, OCH is the place for you. Nowhere else on the web is there such an accumulation of writings, videos, blogs, pictures of beautiful boats in beautiful settings doing what they were beautifully made to do.	10/22/2014 9:01 AM
419	The videos that OCH present are professionally made and pleasing to the eye as well as informative and educational!	10/22/2014 9:01 AM
420	Best boating videos you can find	10/22/2014 9:00 AM
421	OCH videos are entertaining and insightful. Regardless of your interest in boats, you will find OCH informative and appealing. The quality of their productions is first rate. Their selection of topics is uncanny for the person interested in and appreciative of recreational boating. OCH membership is a great value.	10/22/2014 9:00 AM
422	If you like boating a OCH membership is a must. The videos are very enjoyable and informative. This is much better source of information than any magazine subscription.	10/22/2014 9:00 AM

423	These folks have an attitude about sailing that's completely different from the go-fast-spend-lots view of the yacht-racing scene. It's not AGAINST that attitude -- it's more ...well ... perpendicular to it. They have an appreciation for the boats and the people who make them and the places that they can take you; they dig into the interesting corners of the subject (their video on how Shaw and Tenney make oars is one of the best things I've watched in years!); they bring you real experiences of more or less ordinary folks (e.g., someone provisioning for a trip along the Maine Island Trail). They're more likely to talk about clever ways to use a zip-loc bag than why you need a $500 rain jacket. And even when the "howto" videos are about something that I already know about, I often find that I learn a new or different approach, or that the "comment" section has interesting ideas from other subscribers.	10/22/2014 9:00 AM
424	I have a few friends to whom I have forwarded your wonderful pieces, only to later find that they didn't respond because they thought it might be something harmful and wouldn't open my forward. Additionally, I have asked repeatedly that you accept my good money to join by using the telephone, or by mail, but not on line. I did actually succeed once a year or so ago. I make it clear that I love your videos and want very much to enjoy them and would encourage my fiends to do likewise, but not on line. We are in that conservative age group who carefully spend their hard earned retirement funds. Could you please give me your phone number or send me a form (by mail) with the necessary information and we will gladly send an old fashioned check. 425	OCH is a good pace to find many interesting boating and traditional boat building videos in one location. Really great for off season pipe dreaming.	10/22/2014 8:59 AM
426	Excellent information on a variety of subjects. You get up front opinions from experts on their field and can comment and receive replies to questions on the video subject. I am a sailor and a professional boat builder and continually learn more from these videos.	10/22/2014 8:59 AM
427	For those of us who are too old and/or in the wrong retirement location to actually participate in the wonderful world of wooden boats, OCH is a GREAT way to still enjoy the scene!	10/22/2014 8:59 AM
428	if you like mucking around in boats you will like OssCenterHarbor.com.	10/22/2014 8:58 AM
429	If you are a sailor you should not miss joining Off Center Harbor. You won't regret it!	10/22/2014 8:56 AM
430	You can find great videos on how stuff is done on boats - building, handling, and enjoying them. Very useful.	10/22/2014 8:55 AM
431	Amazing videos quality, and very knowledgeable of boat building	10/22/2014 8:54 AM
432	they would be joining a group of like-minded people who value the long tradition of small craft and the sea.	10/22/2014 8:53 AM
433	If you are building a Caledonia, the build series alone is worth the membership.	10/22/2014 8:52 AM
434	Membership provides a brief respite from the pressures of a busy urban lifestyle.	10/22/2014 8:50 AM
435	Maine is a long way away, but it's boatyards and personalities is delivered to my inbox often. Love the tours of the wooden boats and craftsmen's shops and projects.	10/22/2014 8:50 AM
436	Do it. The videos are fun and educational in ways print media just aren't.	10/22/2014 8:50 AM
437	Best value entertainment and education proposition for anyone who loves boats and boating.	10/22/2014 8:48 AM

447	This is a great resource for boating information and instruction	10/22/2014 8:40 AM
448	The OCH crew continue to bring informative boating, sailing and in the boat shop know how videos that have been so inspiring you'd want to start building all these lovely boats and get out on the water and enjoy! With a team of experts guides to answer any of your questions and member participation OCH is a great place to connect with fellow boaters.	10/22/2014 8:40 AM
449	OCH is a fabulous wooden boat website with great how to video's, warm your soul video stories and valuable boat building information.	10/22/2014 8:40 AM
450	It is a very informative site, something for everyone.	10/22/2014 8:39 AM
451	If you love boats, if you love craftsmanship, if you love learning from experts, if you just love the ocean, then you need to be a member of OCH!	10/22/2014 8:39 AM
452	I found the instructional aspects of the boat building videos to be very helpful. The Caledonia Yawl video is exceptionally well done.	10/22/2014 8:38 AM
453	Experience, Passion and dedication are what define OffCenterHarbor.com For those who seek knowlege and clear "howto" regarding boats!	10/22/2014 8:38 AM
454	If you're interested in traditional wooden boats or your esthetic sense is stimulated by the waterfront and it's activities you will love this site. It's the best.	10/22/2014 8:38 AM
455	The OffCenterHarbor website is my haven. It shelters me from the daily storms of life and offers an escape to a place and a subject matter that nourishes my soul and feeds my dreams.	10/22/2014 8:38 AM
456	If you like boats you can not miss this site.	10/22/2014 8:37 AM
457	You can learn valuable tips including boat building techniques and tips on how to handle a boat in certain situations. Both of these aspects have helped me restore and sail my own wooden boat.	10/22/2014 8:37 AM
458	Great videos. The best way to learn a process other than actually doing it, for most of us.	10/22/2014 8:37 AM
459	OCH is an extremely valuable tool for boat owners and boatbuilders. Both traditional and modern techniques are demonstrated very clearly. And the beauty of some of the best boats are showcased in many videos.	10/22/2014 8:36 AM
460	Join Great videos. Great interviews. A bit of summer all year long.	10/22/2014 8:36 AM
461	Enjoyable and informative. There is always something to learn while viewing the videos and they are a most pleasant way of escaping from the real world!	10/22/2014 8:35 AM
462	The videos have been invaluable to me, I was stalled building my own boat, when I started watching the videos I got a much needed jump start and boost in confidence, since then I've made great progress on my own boat	10/22/2014 8:34 AM
463	OffCenterHarbor.com is a rich source of information for both the novice and the experienced sailor. It has a wonderful resource of often hard-to-find tips and ideas from people who really know their stuff. The well executed videos are totally professional and have that rare mix of entertainment and interesting information that you could watch for hours. Really educational and just fun to watch.	10/22/2014 8:33 AM
464	The videos contain lots of fascinating and useful info.	10/22/2014 8:32 AM
465	you wont find what they have elsewhere...	10/22/2014 8:31 AM
466	It gives me information that I either forgotten about or never new.	10/22/2014 8:30 AM
467	If your interested in wooden boats and boat building this is a great site. Very down to earth and a wealth of knowledge	10/22/2014 8:30 AM

473	I build and restore boats as a hobby, but take it pretty seriously. For me, the boat building and restoration videos and blogs are a fantastic resource. The guides are also very responsive, so I've also gotten direct feedback on projects in my shop. With that said, I enjoy the pieces on great boats and boat handling almost as much. I love the site.	10/22/2014 8:26 AM
474	Unique website with extraordinary video content about boat building, seamanship, sail making/trimming, docking/mooring techniques, classic boats, etc. Highly enjoyable even for the non-boat owner.	10/22/2014 8:26 AM
475	When you see those involved in OffCenterHarbor, you know IMMEDIATELY, becoming a member is a must! The creativity and expansion has been and is a delight for me.	10/22/2014 8:25 AM
476	This is a great source of information for the boating and boat building enthusiast. It has wonderful videos of new boats and really great how to build videos.	10/22/2014 8:24 AM
477	It satisfies the hunger for boating knowledge in a modern format that is not available anywhere else.	10/22/2014 8:23 AM
478	If you love traditional boats and like to see them sail or be built, OCH is for you. If you are a woodworker or hobbyist with wood, the techniques and knowledge learned is awesome. Want to know more about boat handling, try OCH. If you don't have a boat and are thinking about building or buying one, and would like the prestige of owning a traditional wooden boat, OCH is the place to start looking and learning. If you are an old codger like me, with a very expensive boat, perhaps just viewing a beautiful wooden boat with traditional lines will give you some peace of mind, or at least give you some respite from worrying about a coked turbo.	10/22/2014 8:22 AM
479	DO SO, IT'S A GREAT SITE, ESPECIALLY IF YOU LOVE TRADITONAL BOATS AS I DO.	10/22/2014 8:22 AM
480	Lots of variety from the crew.	10/22/2014 8:21 AM
481	If you have an interest in boats, you will enjoy and benefit from the excellent videos on OCH. You don't have to be planning on building a boat to appreciate the craftsmanship and creativity of those that do build them. And any boat enthusiast will benefit from the videos on tools, electrical systems, sail trimming, outfitting and design. Whether you are "hands on" looking for practical knowledge, or merely seeking vicarious pleasure, you will be pleased by what you find at OCH.	10/22/2014 8:21 AM
482	Off Center Harbor provides excellent programming about the boats I love. It is a refreshing pause from my hectic pace of life, to just click and sail away.	10/22/2014 8:20 AM
483	Off Center Harbor videos are of the finest quality and offer great, entertaining value. As educational tools they are unsurpassed. My life would be poorer without them.	10/22/2014 8:20 AM
484	Do yourself a favour! Join OCH	10/22/2014 8:20 AM
485	OCH has very informative editorials complete with beautifully illustrated and photographed pictures that anyone interested in boating or sailing wod love.	10/22/2014 8:19 AM
486	great informative videos, compact and well explained, always a pleasure	10/22/2014 8:19 AM
487	OCH is an encyclopedia of knowledge for people owning or interested in a wooden boat. And also, it is a fun time watching the video's.	10/22/2014 8:18 AM
488	Love the videos!	10/22/2014 8:18 AM
489	For those skeptical about the value of the content contained.....don't be. It is exceptional. Lots of variety. Refreshed with new content every few days, if not even more frequently. The series on building the Caledonia Yawl, episodes still being posted, is more than worth the cost of subscription all by itself.	10/22/2014 8:16 AM
490	Because of the consistent high quality of the videos and the excellent content half way through my first year subscription, I paid to become a lifetime member. I have not been disappointed; OCH was only gotten better as its collection has grown. Highly recommended for instructional videos.	10/22/2014 8:15 AM
491	Join! It is the most helpful site on the net!	10/22/2014 8:14 AM
492	Informative videos that are well done. Heavy emphasis on the almost lost art of wooden boat maintenance & repair. While interesting, this may not be for owners of classic plastic boats.	10/22/2014 8:13 AM
493	OCH is a unique organization of highly skilled people who blend history, technology and craftsmanship with fascinating presentations and a wealth of useful resources. If you work on boats, it's priceless. If you never touch a boat, the presentations are entertaining and a highly informative window to the maritime world.	10/22/2014 8:12 AM
494	OCH has great information, both written and video, from the experts in many aspects of boat construction, maintenance, and use. Worth the investment.	10/22/2014 8:10 AM

495	If you have any interest in traditional boats, whether or not you will ever build or own one, OCH will provide you with informative and motivating information. Most important, it will add immeasurably to your best dreams.	10/22/2014 8:10 AM
496	Flip a coin, it's ok.	10/22/2014 8:10 AM
497	Great videos, and good information on wooden boat construction. Also the sailing videos are very enjoyable. With all the junk on the internet out there, it is refreshing to see something that is constructive and positive on a subject I personally enjoy very much.	10/22/2014 8:08 AM
498	Wonderful opportunity to see the highest quality short films describing almost any and all aspects of the boating and boat building life and art that brings us all to boating, and keeps it a life long passion.	10/22/2014 8:06 AM
499	To me it is important to be connected to this kind of information to fine tune your knowledge on technical aspects, design and construction. It is a refreshing course.	10/22/2014 8:05 AM
500	Good videos and the opportunity to see places, boating and boat building processes that can't be captured in single photos in a magazine.	10/22/2014 8:05 AM
501	OCH is a great source of information for the wooden boat owners. We are a dyeing breed but to see the "art work" of wooden boat building and maintenance still taking place is something to enjoy.	10/22/2014 8:05 AM
502	If you love wooden boats, craftsmen that build with their hearts, hate commercials and adds, OffCenterHarbor.com is the place to hang out.	10/22/2014 8:04 AM
503	I am a novice boat builder, building a wooden Lightning sailboat. I have read lots of articles and books but am really a visual learner. The "how-to" OCH videos on boat building have been a great help to me. The OCH videos about Herreshoff sailboats have caused me to fall in love with those boats, and, if I ever finish my Lightning, I may well try to build one of them.	10/22/2014 8:04 AM
504	Really amazing videos!	10/22/2014 8:04 AM
505	It is an online boating library and information centre for those who are into classic wooden boats of all descriptions with a considerable amount of practical advice that has application to building, maintenance, usage and handling; easy to navigate and with a growing list of material and lots of potential.	10/22/2014 8:04 AM
506	OCH seems to be structured to provide all sorts of good information on wooden boats. They do a wonderful job as I'm still learning new things after messing around with wooden boats as an adult since the late 60s.	10/22/2014 8:04 AM
507	One can read about how to build a boat or approach a dock in a power boat, but seeing the video is the next best thing to actually doing it.	10/22/2014 8:04 AM
508	This is a good value. The videos are very interesting and applicable to anyone interested in watercraft and water. The topics are varied and informative.	10/22/2014 8:03 AM
509	They have a lot of very useful material, and they keep adding more at a good clip.	10/22/2014 8:03 AM
510	great content, well done videos, they get it when it comes to boats, not enough videos (we're still building the mast while steve sails the boat on a three day trip)	10/22/2014 8:02 AM
511	High quality videos. If you love boats, then almost any of the videos will inspire you. You can get on the water from your chair! (Will definitely be great when the boat is on the hard in winter months). I have been interested in boat building for a long time, and the boat building videos really give a great insight to the process. Also, it is nice just to see how other sailors do things. This can spark some ideas for your own boat and seamanship.	10/22/2014 8:02 AM
512	OCH has a wealth of informative content that you just don't find elsewhere.	10/22/2014 8:01 AM
513	A fun and informative sight to anyone with a desire to learn about all things marine.	10/22/2014 8:00 AM
514	Educational videos mixed with glorious boat porn.	10/22/2014 7:59 AM
515	The site has high quality video's of classic boat restoration and maintenance.	10/22/2014 7:59 AM
516	To go for it.	10/22/2014 7:59 AM
517	Great informative videos about our favorite subject! If not learning something new, just watching the waves go by on a cold winter day!	10/22/2014 7:58 AM
518	Excellent source of knowledge on boats, sailing, boat systems, rigging, outfitting, mooring, etc..	10/22/2014 7:58 AM

519	Off Center Harbor has really opened my eyes about boats. I understand so much more about why is a boat is built the way it is. I think I've watched 80% of the videos (many a number of times). This is where I go to be with like minded people who love being on the water.	10/22/2014 7:57 AM
520	A learning for new ideas and educational	10/22/2014 7:57 AM
521	OCH is a great way to see more and learn more about an immensely broad range of boating topics - without ever getting your feet wet! It also serves as a great touchstone for the culture of "those who go down to the sea in ships."	10/22/2014 7:56 AM
522	It's worth it.	10/22/2014 7:55 AM
523	How much do you think you know about boats? However much that is , there is always something on this site that will capture your interest.From every perspective, but particularly impressive is the enthusiastic presentation by the contributors, done in such a way that is professional without being patronising , informative without being too technical. This site has the ability to inspire and develop confidence.	10/22/2014 7:54 AM
524	Just do it! You will be glad you did.	10/22/2014 7:54 AM
525	Getit its WONDERFUL Love these guys sweet voice esp Eric's	10/22/2014 7:53 AM
526	If you want to see a wide variety of some interesting and up close videos of life on the water and boats you'll want to try out a subscription. You won't be disappointed!	10/22/2014 7:49 AM
527	I am fairly new to sailing and the videos have been extremley helpful.	10/22/2014 7:48 AM
528	"A picture tells a thousand words" - plus, you get words!	10/22/2014 7:47 AM
529	The videos are very impressive.	10/22/2014 7:46 AM
530	This is an American site, a place for lovers of wooden boats and traditional boat designs. It started small and with no real sense of a world beyond North America. I'm still not sure if videos will ever feature a Danish cruising family or a Sri Lankan design. So it may well continue to be like so much on the web, unconsciously insular. But personal videos with real sailors and sailmakers don't need any translation for us in the olde worlds.	10/22/2014 7:44 AM
531	Great videos that have practical value for the boating enthusiast and visual enjoyment for anyone.	10/22/2014 7:44 AM
532	Lots of good stuff	10/22/2014 7:43 AM
533	These days my real world on the water options are limited. OCH gives me a boat, boatyard and a nice place to hang out on the coast of Maine.	10/22/2014 7:40 AM
534	That the vids are informative, interesting and well done.	10/22/2014 7:40 AM
535	Why waste your time watching TV, when you can focus on your favorite passion of endless boating activities.	10/22/2014 7:39 AM
536	It is a Maine based home grown, classy website with a great editorial staff who care about form function and beauty in the nautical realm.	10/22/2014 7:37 AM
537	Join and enjoy	10/22/2014 7:36 AM
538	Quality content	10/22/2014 7:36 AM
539	Good boat building videos.	10/22/2014 7:35 AM
540	If you love the water and boats OCH is a must. Videos are professionally produced, informative and cover a wide range of topics.	10/22/2014 7:34 AM
541	I would say that if you were a novice sailer or boat builder like me or a seasoned veteran, Off Center Harbor is an invaluable resource. Given the cost verses what you get in return, I think it is even a greater value. I love it. OCH has given me tools to be a better sailer and more.	10/22/2014 7:32 AM
542	Good source of information that can not be found anywhere else.	10/22/2014 7:31 AM
543	informative and highly entertaining	10/22/2014 7:31 AM

549	Being a member will provide access to a determined crew of experienced boaters whose mission is to transfer accurate and relevant knowledge about boats and boating to its membership. It's a great source.	10/22/2014 7:25 AM
550	join offcenterharbor.com is the only choice for those who love wooden boats and their world.....	10/22/2014 7:25 AM
551	The vids are very high quality, non ads. It's the perfect way to 'sail' during the winter from the comfort of your living room. Makes me want to move to Maine.	10/22/2014 7:24 AM
552	Tips and tricks on anything boating, from building to maintenance to cruising Blogs from experts in their fields Fantastic photography	10/22/2014 7:23 AM
553	The enthusiasm and knowledge and wide variety of subject matter are great, but the vicarious experience of being on the water, in a unique boat just top out the whole experience. boat	10/22/2014 7:23 AM
554	Do it - the site provides a fabulous range of material which is informative, interesting and often delightful, both as a source of technical guidance and instruction, as well as a pleasant relief from the daily hub bub of 9-5	10/22/2014 7:22 AM
555	Just DO IT! You won't regret it.....you can even SHARE some good videos with your fellow emailers.	10/22/2014 7:20 AM
556	OCH is a place on the internet where you can wind down, relax, and be inspired.	10/22/2014 7:19 AM
557	OCH is the only service of its type. It incorporates all the advantages of the written page with "being there." OCH = wide range of topics; first class HD videography; constantly growing selection; voice interviews that include follow up discussion in many videos. Shortens the Winter months when you cannot be on the water!	10/22/2014 7:18 AM
558	The brief articles and videos contain a wide range to topics on traditional wooden boats for readers with a wide range of knowledge and experience. There are informative videos for beginners as well as those who have a considerable history of interest in traditional boats.	10/22/2014 7:17 AM
559	That this is a wonderful window into a slice of coastal life that will inspire, inform and make you smile. Also I'd say...and have...that och shows a part of my life as a wooden boat sailor in Maine.	10/22/2014 7:16 AM
560	Just DO IT! If you have enjoyed Wooden Boat magazine all these years this is more in depth and in video format	10/22/2014 7:15 AM
561	What I was able to glean from just one video was worth far more the the membership and there are still many many more videos to watch.	10/22/2014 7:15 AM
562	Always insightful, frequently beautiful, often adds to knowledge or skills base...not youtube quality, but well shot, well edited professional video these stories will bring joy to winter days when you are dreaming of being on or near the water	10/22/2014 7:15 AM
563	A wooden sailboat site,	10/22/2014 7:14 AM
564	Besides being informative and educational, OCH is eye candy for those long winter months.	10/22/2014 7:13 AM
565	Do it!	10/22/2014 7:12 AM
566	While I have been on the water almost all my life and have been building and repairing small boats since I was 15 I still learn something new from almost all of the offerings by OffCenter Harbor. It is also very convenient to have blog access to some very knowledgeable people for problem solving.	10/22/2014 7:12 AM
567	What a wonderful source for information, and videos...a great site for boat lovers.	10/22/2014 7:11 AM
568	I find the videos and discussion very interesting if you are into wooden boats. There is lots of information. I enjoy the extra videos from other sources that are offered too. I took a while to join because I wanted to see if the site was going to continue to work hard and add videos. Didn't want to get stuck having paid for a moribund hobby. But it is far from that. New stuff gets added several times a week and it's all good. Love it and recommend it. It's price is reasonable and good value.	10/22/2014 7:11 AM
569	OCH gives a different outlook and information from other boating publications. I have expanded my boating knowledge by following their articles.	10/22/2014 7:11 AM
570	It's the best inspiration I have for getting in my shop and "getting to it".	10/22/2014 7:10 AM
571	Good product	10/22/2014 7:10 AM

572	The video features are very interesting and informative. I've been sailing over 20 years and have still been able to pick up some new stuff. I particularly enjoyed learning about electrical systems.	10/22/2014 7:09 AM
573	Do it!	10/22/2014 7:09 AM
574	Enjoy all the videos very much. Entertaining, informative and educational.	10/22/2014 7:07 AM
575	It's worth it.	10/22/2014 7:06 AM
576	Go ahead. It's inexpensive and value for money.	10/22/2014 7:06 AM
577	It's like receiving a surprise present every time a new video is released.	10/22/2014 7:06 AM
578	I have been sailing along the coast of Maine for 30 years and continue to learn new things from OffCenterHarbor	10/22/2014 7:06 AM
579	A fantastic resource constantly being enhanced.	10/22/2014 7:05 AM
580	Being a South African, living in South Africa, with our exchange rate the subscription is very dear, however, I believe the content is worthwhile.	10/22/2014 7:05 AM
581	It is the next best thing to actually boating and messing around with boats there is.	10/22/2014 7:05 AM
582	Do it. May be the most entertaining and informative boat related website that I've seen.	10/22/2014 7:03 AM
583	great resource	10/22/2014 7:03 AM
584	Those of us who enjoy the pleasures of sailing and being on the water, and who admire the beauty of good design and love the building of a beautiful wooden boat will get great satisfaction from being a member of Off Center Harbor.	10/22/2014 7:02 AM
585	Great resource and interesting project videos!	10/22/2014 7:00 AM
586	There is a lot of great information in the videos. They are also fun to watch and answer a lot of questions.	10/22/2014 7:00 AM
587	Do it! There's a treasure chest of experience and knowledge waiting to be opened.	10/22/2014 6:59 AM
588	I think it's very much a site worth joining! Whether you're a classic boat lover, sailor, boat builder, or paddler---at any level!--you'll appreciate the videos and blogs. I learn something new every time I log in, and I often watch the videos that aren't "how-to" just for a few minutes of relaxation, escapism, and seeing something beautiful!	10/22/2014 6:58 AM
589	Great way to enjoy your passion, when you're just tired at the end of day and don't feel like reading but still want to watch something interesting. I teach at a vocational school, regular used at the end of class when I have 5 to 15 minutes of extra time	10/22/2014 6:58 AM
590	Do it you won't regret it. Great site with lots of info	10/22/2014 6:56 AM
591	Fun. Informative. Entertaining. Same yearly price as many magazine or newspaper subscriptions in paper or online. If you like boats and especially sailboats you won't be disappointed. I started with a 1 year commitment and have been pleased enough to continue since inception. Why not try a year.	10/22/2014 6:56 AM
592	Quit delaying joining. This is possibly the best, if not the only, website for learning about the act and art of sailing. If you watch the videos about sail making and sail handling you will have justified spending the money. However, if you only watch for entertainment it will be a very enjoyable and learning experience.	10/22/2014 6:56 AM
593	Great value. Instructional videos as well as those of fantastic boats are a pleasure. Also special features such as artists have provided our family with treasured art that brings us back to Maine even when we are away.	10/22/2014 6:56 AM
594	OCH is a virtual maritime museum and its rich library is like visiting the boater's version of Smithsonian from your armchair. It contains current and relevant information as well as a wonderful path through maritime history.	10/22/2014 6:55 AM
595	Do it, especially if you are interested in wooden boats	10/22/2014 6:55 AM
596	It is well worth every nickel to get access to this collection of beautiful, informative and helpful videos. They are a pleasure to watch, even the more technical ones.	10/22/2014 6:54 AM
597	You will have access to some of the best sailing videos and nautical information available.	10/22/2014 6:54 AM
598	Join	10/22/2014 6:54 AM
599	Rarely watch any videos.	10/22/2014 6:52 AM
600	Good instructional videos	10/22/2014 6:51 AM

601	that OHC is the most informative interesting and entertaining show? and I really enjoy it	10/22/2014 6:51 AM
602	Best quality videos about boating and boatbuilding ever!	10/22/2014 6:51 AM
603	This site is a must for anyone who has even a small interest in wooden boats. I check the site almost daily for any new videos or other information.	10/22/2014 6:48 AM
604	Better than "Breaking Bad"! Can't wait for the next installment of Geoff Kerr's Building the Cacedonia Yawl, a fabulous film tutorial beautifully shot by the OCH crew.	10/22/2014 6:48 AM
605	Just do it! Whatever your interest in wooden boats there'll be plenty to intrigue and fascinate you, from tying knots to building a boat step-by-step to achieving a flawless paint finish to docking your boat without scratching your paint or someone else's. Or maybe you just want to admire wooden boats and the beautiful Maine coastline.	10/22/2014 6:47 AM
606	A great place to learn and upgrade skills in boat building and handling	10/22/2014 6:47 AM
607	It's a great source of information for the boating enthusiast. Good, in-depth videos that actually show how it's done by people who have been doing it all their lives. And - don't forget the variety - everything from how to keep your toes flexible to how to anchor off a rocky coast. And in between, lots of beautiful boats underway.	10/22/2014 6:46 AM
608	Do it, it's a great source of boating information and community	10/22/2014 6:45 AM
609	Join! An informative and educational series with real people solving real issues. Great imagery!	10/22/2014 6:45 AM
610	Great videos. They are fun to watch and I have learned a lot from watching them. There is also some great background scenery.	10/22/2014 6:44 AM
611	I find the videos and content on OCH wholly engaging, educational and enthralling. One genuinely feels the passion from each carefully chosen expert being interviewed, who is always allowed to relay their topic without interruption or distraction from the equally enthralled OCH interviewer. Best of all: no commercial aims or content. I deliberated for some time, as there is so much yachting content online, but have since found myself scratching my sailing itch most days. Great site with great content.	10/22/2014 6:44 AM
612	This is an absolutely unique website with information that cannot be found anywhere else.	10/22/2014 6:44 AM
613	If you really love boats this site has everything for you!	10/22/2014 6:43 AM
614	Join!!!! Love the videos!!! A must for anyone interested in wooden boats.	10/22/2014 6:43 AM
615	You'll have access to an ever-broadening library of instructive and entertaining materials that are reassuring evidence of persistent values of craftsmanship and seamanship.	10/22/2014 6:42 AM
616	the website is not only very enjoyable, but educational as well. It is great to watch for a few minutes when you need a dose of sailing or boats.	10/22/2014 6:40 AM
617	Excellent content, but you must be willing to sit at a computer for some time.	10/22/2014 6:40 AM
618	OCH videos provides hope that the long winter end. And inspiration to get ready for the summer.	10/22/2014 6:37 AM
619	Go ahead, it won't hurt and it will give you loads of ideas for how you can spend your retirement	10/22/2014 6:36 AM
620	If you enjoy watching true craftsmen plying their trade and maybe learn a little bit about approaching any problem or challenge in life, with artful skills, you owe it to yourself to watch ..., and learn.	10/22/2014 6:34 AM
621	, im not sure, i bought a membership for my brother , he has not used it, i think it is inspirational for carpenters as well as sailors, i am a sailor , and a carpenter , he is a carpenter. I promote offcenter harbour and i am thinkinking of sharing it with our Lions Head yacht club.	10/22/2014 6:33 AM
622	The videos are very high quality and well done. Topics are varied and there is something for everyone interested in boating. Picking up just a few tips pays for the membership.	10/22/2014 6:32 AM
623	If you intend to be a "build it yourself" boatwright, you really need a support group who understands the small details that make the "great project" really work.	10/22/2014 6:31 AM
624	very interesting and informative..good price	10/22/2014 6:30 AM
625	Great way to learn about anything concerning wood boats, repair, building or just plain enjoying them.	10/22/2014 6:29 AM
626	..what a great place to soak up the atmosphere of boating, when your at home instead of being on the water. Lot's of browsing and learning. Super !	10/22/2014 6:29 AM
